

Living In Jackson Hole
specializing in lifestyle real estate

For Immediate Release

August 10, 2008

Jackson Hole – Today Living in Jackson Hole launched a new website designed to provide prospective buyers and sellers with a unique platform to market or purchase property. Using their relationship with their broker, Real Estate of Jackson Hole, and the relationships with Christies, Luxury Real Estate and Locale, the site aims to market properties to a global market. The website uses advanced search engine optimization (SEO) techniques to expose a sellers property to millions of viewers on-line. The site also features useful information and news for buyers as well ad sellers and will provide a first of its kind interactive map of the area. Working in conjunction with the Jackson Hole Historical society, the feature will provide history about the area a buyer may be considering to give them a better appreciation and knowledge of the area. The site was developed with the help of Jackson's own Redtopia Software and Design and uses the services of a local SEO firm. The site will continue to be enhanced over the coming months.
