Living In Jackson Hole Adds IDX Technology to Website

Living In Jackson Hole (LIJH) is proud to announce the addition of IDX technology to its website. Internet Data Exchange (IDX) is a cooperative data transfer that allows brokers who opt in the capability of sharing their listings on the internet. Working with the Teton Board of Realtors MLS provider, FBS Data Systems, LIJH has imbedded the capability into its website. For our clients this means you have access to almost everything we see in a real-time web based environment. The advanced search and mapping capability adds to the users experience, giving them features they never had with older systems. FBS Data Systems launched the new capability in September 2008 and LIJH was quick to adopt the changes as a service to their clients.

LIJH is committed to the evaluation and implementation of leading edge technologies that will enhance the knowledge and information sharing with our clients. Over the coming months LIJH will roll out new unique features to our website that will further add value to our clients and improve both communication and information sharing between us.

About Living In Jackson Hole

Living In Jackson Hole (LIJH), was originally developed in 2007 by its founder, Dana Harris. LIJH is the real estate website for the team who are licensed Sales Associate's with Real Estate of Jackson Hole. The site was created to give buyers and sellers in the Jackson Hole real estate market better access to tools and information to aid both us and them in the purchase or sale of their property. We will continue to roll out new features and technology into 2009.
